Ask a question: The M4 is the main access point for nearly three-quarters of the population of Wales. It cannot cope with the present traffic flows, and the risks of accident and delay are totally unacceptable. I believe the Blue Route is just a stop-gap measure on the cheap that will create more problems than it solves, will create massive disruption, and will be inadequate even before it is finished. Eventually someone will have to do the job properly. Please, please do it now.
